

Correct Twitter Messages

Instructions ▾

Read the following Twitter message and look for words tagged with "/OOV" (OOV means Out-Of-Vocabulary). For each OOV word, assign a correct tag using the following tagging rules:

Tagging rules:

1. If it is a slang word, then replace "/OOV" tag with "/SLG". And, provide a full meaning of the slang word. For example, for the word "imo/OOV", its corrected form will be "in my opinion/SLG". Note that Twitter users often use slangs and abbreviations intentionally, mainly to fit within Twitter 140 character limit.
2. If it is a geo-location, then replace the "/OOV" tag with "/LOC". Also correct spellings, if required.
3. If it is a misspelled word or a typo, then replace the "/OOV" tag with "/MSP" and provide its correct spellings. Note that misspellings and typos happen unintentionally.
4. If it is an organization name (or an acronym of an organization), then replace the "/OOV" tag with "/ORG" and provide its full form. For example, for word "FBI/OOV", the correct answer is "Federal Bureau of Investigation/ORG"
5. If it seems like a person name, then replace the "/OOV" tag with "/PP"
6. If it is a combination of more than one words like "prayfornepal", then split it into multiple words using spaces and replace the "/OOV" tag with "/MW". For example, "prayfornepal/OOV" will become "pray for nepal/MW"
7. If none of the above is applicable or the OOV word is not an English word, then replace the "/OOV" tag with "/NA"

Rules for providing answers:

1. To answer, copy and paste the OOV word from the message into the text box, correct the word spellings, if required. And finally assign it the correct tag.
2. In case, multiple OOV words appear in a message, separate your answer using a comma followed by a space. Example of a correct answer for multi-OOV words message looks like this: word1/SLG, word2/LOC, word3/MW
3. In case, if same OOV word appears multiple times, check in which context it has been used. It is possible that same OOV word has different meaning depending on its context.
4. Your corrected tags must be in the same order as the OOV tags appear in the message.

Following are a few example messages and their correct forms.

Message 1: Donate using paytm/OOV

This message has "paytm" OOV. Based on Google search, we found it an organization name (<https://paytm.com/>). So the answer for this is: paytm/ORG

Message 2: Thanx to media covering the disaster routly/OOV

It seems that the OOV word "routly" is misspelled. So after correcting spellings and putting the right tag, it will be: routinely/MSP

Message 3: Hi frndz/OOV god plz save d people of nepal

In this message, the OOV word "frndz" is a famous slang people use on social media. So the correct tag with correct meaning of this slang will be: friends/SLG

NOTE: You can use Google or any other search engine to look for hits about an OOV word.

Twitter message:
