

---

The Maltese Falcon

John Huston, director

William Luhr, editor

Rutgers University Press
New Brunswick, New Jersey

---

Contents

---

Introduction

The Maltese Falcon, the Detective Genre, and Film Noir / 3
William Luhr

John Huston: A Biographical Sketch / 17
William Luhr

The Maltese Falcon

Credits and Cast / 26

The Continuity Script / 27

Contexts, Reviews, and Commentaries

Contexts

The Story of Samuel Spade and Mr. Flitcraft / 109
Dashiell Hammett

“The Stuff That Dreams Are Made Of”: The Maltese Falcon / 112
Rudy Behlmer

Reviews

The New York Times / 127
Bosley Crowther

The New Republic / 129
Otis Ferguson

“An Exciting . . . Put-You-to-Sleep Story,” L'Écrân Français / 130
Nino Frank

“A New Kind of Detective Story,” L'Écrân Français / 132
Nino Frank

Commentaries

“Undirectable Director,” Life / 139
James Agee

John Huston and The Maltese Falcon / 149
James Naremore

Tracking The Maltese Falcon: Classical Hollywood Narration and Sam Spade / 161
William Luhr

On the Trail of Dashiell Hammett
(The Three Versions of The Maltese Falcon) / 176

Jean-Loup Bourget (writing as Jacques Segond)

The Beam That Fell and Other
Crises in The Maltese Falcon / 181

Ilsa J. Bick

Filmography and Bibliography

Huston Filmography, 1931–1987 /
203

Selected Bibliography / 209