

Context: The following text describes the status of the abnormal network entity performance indicators in a wireless local area network.....

Question: According to the preceding description, if similar historical fault information exists, identify the fault type and provide a solution. If no, identify the current fault type and provide the optimal solution. Select a fault type from options.

Options:

1. nodedown: Node lost complete network communication capability due to hardware failure.
2. ppdown: Application program failure results in the inability to request and respond
- n. None Fault