

UPWARD MOBILITY PROGRAM AND GOALS

(Section 46a-68-91)

March 2024

This section was in compliance in the previous filing and there were no proposals or recommendations.

Subsection (a)

The University remains committed to the professional development of its employees. The University is a highly unionized environment. Current collective bargaining unit agreements limit the University's ability to selectively identify specific individuals for upward mobility.

Various collective bargaining agreements require posting of jobs. In addition, for specific bargaining units, recognition of seniority the key factor in upward mobility.

Article 14 (Section One) of the Maintenance & Service Unit (NP-2) Contract between the State of Connecticut and Connecticut Employees Union Independent states: "Reclassification of position shall not be utilized to defeat the contractual procedures of this Article". Article 14 (Section Four) also states: "(a) provided that no employee has recall rights, each vacancy shall be filled by transfer within the agency. If the vacancy cannot be filled by transfer within the agency, then it shall be filled by promotion from within the agency". Section Five (a) of Article 14 states that, "...vacancies shall be filled on the basis of greater seniority, as defined in Article 12, unless in the reasonable judgment of the employer, there is a significant difference in the work records of those seeking the position, or if the more senior employee is not qualified to perform the job."

For the reasons previously stated pursuant to collective bargaining provisions, the professional development opportunities for reclassification of employees in collective bargaining units must result from growth within a specific position and the need for the employee to perform the duties at a higher level.

The Office of Human Resources (OHR) works with managers on strategies to provide classified staff, in accordance with collective bargaining agreements, opportunities to gain experience that will prepare them for higher-level positions or different career options.

Upward Mobility Initiatives

OHR continued to offer various trainings and workshops including Strategies for Building Your Resilience at Work, Working From Home: Creating Balance and Maintaining Productivity, Managing a Remote Workforce, and The Five Behaviors Personal Development Plan, which provided information and guidance to develop the skills and capabilities required to assist employees in meeting their short term and long term professional goals and providing employees with strategies for working through difficult times. Please note that all programs were offered virtually during this Plan year.

During this Plan year, the Workforce Solutions Team continued the development of the new Career Progression Program that was introduced in the 2016 collective bargaining agreement between UCPEA and UConn and continued in the 2021 CBA. Career Progression allows employees in the bargaining unit to move between three ranks – Proficient, Advanced, Expert – within their existing classification. The Program, which is scheduled to be released to the campus community in July 2023, will allow managers to work with employees to develop their skills, behaviors, and competencies to move up in the ranks. As a result of the Career Progression Program, OHR continues to work with each department and manager on campus to ensure each employee has an updated functional job specification that will be reviewed annually by managers and employees. This will further support career mobility for employees as they will have a well outlined document describing expectations of their respective positions. These internal job specifications will play an important role in discussions between managers and employees on current expectations as well as opportunities for future growth.

Training and Development

Training activities included State In-Service Training offerings, Strategies for Building Your Resilience at Work, Working from Home: Creating Balance and Maintaining Productivity, Managing a Remote Workforce, and The Five Behaviors Personal Development Plan, New Employee Orientation, New Faculty Orientation, and other HR Sponsored Programs offered virtually.

University employees were once again encouraged to participate in State In-Service programs. Sixty-nine employees were accepted to programs this fiscal year.

The CEUI bargaining union offered to pay for state-sponsored training for their members again this year. Thirty-nine employees participated during the Fall 2022 semester. Programs were not offered during Spring 2022.

The OHR's Organizational Effectiveness and Workplace Culture Team continues to develop programs designed to support employees' career growth and is currently engaged in the development of Leadership and Management Development programs., such as cohort-based leader development and manager development programs.

OHR also continues to facilitate professional development for employees through tuition waiver and reimbursement programs.

Upon request, The Human Resources Workforce Solutions Team introduced new administrators and staff to search and reclassification procedures. The Workforce Solutions Team also continued to provide comprehensive training on the PageUp Applicant Tracking system for members of the campus community, including any new system functionality as it is developed and implemented.

Please see EXHIBIT 1 of this section for a detailed summary of training and development attendance.

Career Counseling

Individual Career Counseling is available to employees. Both initial and follow-up appointments can be scheduled at the employee's request. During counseling sessions, the employee's experience, training, and areas of interest are reviewed. Based on the review, employees are given advice on re-employment and recall placements, alternative job placements, potential promotional opportunities at the University, and job search strategies. Human Resources Specialists and Associates counseled three employees during this reporting period. Please see EXHIBIT 2 of this section for employee counseling information.

Topics discussed in the counseling sessions included:

- Promotional opportunities employees can pursue immediately with their current experience and training.
- Required experience and training for titles to which employees aspire, as well as needs in those areas. When available, employees are given exam announcements and job specifications outlining the requirements of the higher-level position(s).
- Preparing cover letters and resumes; obtaining reference letters; tuition reimbursement and other state and university benefits; and where they might look for any additional required training.
- The impact of collective bargaining contract provisions affecting career development. For maintenance employees, the effect of the vacancy and promotion articles on the seniority and transfer lists is the most frequently discussed issue.
- How to navigate the state JobApps website including job openings and other employment related information.

Employee Programs

The University continued to offer programs designed to help employees obtain information to support them with events of daily life. The goal of the program is to connect employees with others in the University community who can help them be productive at work, stay healthy and stay safe. Programs included the following seminar topics:

- Manage Self-Talk to Be More Resilient
- How to Tell If Your Work and Life Are Out of Balance
- How Mindfulness Can Help You

- Being Sensitive to Cross-Cultural Communication

The University also continued to develop its work/life program and the OHR expects to launch an effort in the next plan year to expand efforts around Work/Life, in part by establishing a group of dedicated employees with an interest and passion in promoting work/life initiatives for all employees at the University of Connecticut. The Work/Life website continues to be maintained and updated as needed to feature childcare providers, seniors/eldercare information, wellness and parenting information as well as information about professional development opportunities, flextime and leaves, cultural and community events, and other helpful information and services available to the University community.

The OHR also sponsored the annual Work/Life Exposition in October 2022, which was held in-person. The Expo included exhibitors in the areas of benefits, health, wellness and service, and provided resources and information to employees demonstrating the University's commitment to work/life balance.

The University also continues to maintain and work to improve the services offered through the Employee Assistance Program vendor, Deer Oaks. Deer Oaks provides a national network of counselors available to employees as well as a multitude of services promoting work/life and professional development.

Subsection (b)

The University has an established an effective program of accommodation for employees. The Office of Human Resources (OHR) is currently responsible for processing and facilitating requests for employee ADA accommodations. Associate Vice President of OIE Letissa Reid serves as the University's ADA Coordinator and Stephanie Hackett serves as the Deputy ADA Coordinator.

University employees in need of an accommodation are encouraged to contact OHR and complete the Request for Reasonable Accommodation Form. Please see EXHIBIT 3 of this section for a copy of the form. Employees in need of an accommodation need to provide appropriate medical information to support the request. The Authorization for Disclosure and Release of Medical Information Form, authorizing OHR to contact the employee's health care provider or qualified practitioner, is available for this purpose. Please see EXHIBIT 4 of this section for a copy of the form. All employee requests for an accommodation and accompanying medical information are promptly evaluated and kept confidential consistent with state and federal law. To respond to an employee's request for accommodation, the ADA Accommodations Case Manager meets with the employee and reviews medical documents, the essential job functions of his/her position, and the specific facts of each request. OHR utilizes this information to determine whether the employee is eligible for an accommodation.

OHR next facilitates a discussion with the employee's manager to determine what accommodations may be reasonable. To explore the request, the department is informed of the employee's functional limitations and the accommodation he or she requested, but medical information never shared with the department. Following this interactive dialogue between the employee and manager, OHR assists the parties in determining whether an agreement regarding specific accommodations can be reached. At the conclusion of the interactive process, OHR communicates to both the employee and the manager the steps that were taken and the process for providing any mutually agreed-upon accommodation(s). The employee is responsible for contacting the OHR ADA Accommodations Case Manager if the reasonable accommodations are not implemented in an effective and timely manner, or if the accommodations require additional modifications. Should any party feel as though any particular aspect of the arrangement is not working (or no longer working) or requires revising, OHR facilitates further discussion regarding any issue(s) that may arise. OHR works with the employee and the manager to resolve disagreements regarding the agreed-upon accommodations. To consider requests, OHR utilizes the Reasonable Accommodations Chart, which details the process. Please see EXHIBIT 5 of this section for a copy of the chart.

The Office of Institutional Equity (OIE) monitors the University's compliance with the ADA's requirements for workplace accommodations. The University forbids all forms of disability discrimination, including the failure to provide reasonable accommodations and discrimination or harassment based on physical or mental disabilities. To that end, incidents of discrimination or discriminatory harassment (including disability discrimination, and failure to provide a reasonable accommodation) by University employees are investigated by OIE. Complaints regarding such incidents are processed in accordance with OIE's complaint procedures. Please see EXHIBIT 1 of the Discrimination Complaint Process section for the complaint procedures.

Information related to the University's accommodation process, including policies, forms and additional resources can be found on OHR's website: <https://hr.uconn.edu/ada-compliance/>.

Job and Accommodation Information

Please explain how your medical condition(s) listed in Section B affect(s) your ability to perform the essential functions of your position. If you are a new employee, state the anticipated difficulties you foresee in completing your job duties. Be as specific regarding the job duties you are having difficulty performing or believe you will have difficulty performing.

Please provide your recommendations for a reasonable accommodation(s) and any information you may have about any associated costs (attach supporting documentation).

Please describe any accommodations or assistive technologies you currently use.

Please identify any University employee with whom you have discussed this request for a reasonable accommodation (i.e., co-worker, supervisor, HR, etc.) Please include dates

Please add any comments you feel may be helpful in consideration of your request.

Acknowledgement

I understand that it will be my responsibility to complete a Medical Release Form and provide it to the ADA Accommodations Case Manager for my request to be evaluated. I further understand that the ADA Accommodations Case Manager will evaluate and respond to me based upon the information that I provide.

INTERACTIVE ADA ACCOMMODATIONS PROCESS: WHAT TO EXPECT

NOTE: The interactive workplace accommodations process requires an individualized assessment of each request. This chart provides a framework of the steps taken in most cases, but individual cases may vary. If you have any question, need an accommodation, or work with or supervise someone that you believe might require an accommodation, please contact HR directly: 860-485-2036 or ryan.bangham@uconn.edu. More information is available online: www.hr.uconn.edu/ada-compliance/.

1 The Request

The employee (i.e., "requestor") communicates the need for workplace accommodations to a supervisor or the ADA Case Manager (CM) at HR. An "accommodations request" happens anytime an employee communicates his or her need for assistance at work because of a disability. The request does not need to contain specific words or to be made in a specific format.

2 Discussion with Requestor

CM meets with the requestor to explain the interactive process generally and discuss the employee's essential job functions, medical conditions and limitations, and the accommodations sought to allow the employee to perform his or her job. CM also obtains a medical release from the requestor allowing CM to consult directly with the requestor's medical provider(s).

3 HR Communicates with Medical Provider

When necessary, CM communicates directly with the requestor's medical providers to obtain information regarding the medical conditions (to determine if the requestor is "disabled" under state/federal law) and accommodations sought. CM will serve as a repository for any confidential medical information, which will not be shared outside of HR.

6 Interactive Dialogue

CM facilitates a discussion between the requestor and the manager to explore the requested accommodations and other alternative accommodations. CM does not make the final decision – rather, CM assists the parties, as needed, to evaluate what accommodations would allow the requestor to perform his or her essential job functions without presenting an undue hardship to the department's business needs.

5 Interim Accommodations

CM will explore with the parties whether any interim accommodations are needed while the interactive accommodations process is underway. CM will work with the requestor and his or her manager to assist in implementing interim accommodations, which may expire at the conclusion of the full interactive process.

4 If Request is Medically Supported: HR Discussion with Manager

CM meets with the requestor's manager to discuss the requestor's essential job functions, limitations (but not medical diagnoses), and requested accommodations. The manager explores the request in light of the requestor's job functions and the business needs of the department, including an examination of the hardship, if any, entailed by granting the request.

7 HR Provides Written Summary of Process

At the conclusion of the interactive process, CM memorializes the steps taken to consider the accommodation request and the manager's basis for providing or refusing the requested accommodations.

If Request is Not Medically Supported

If the employee does not have a "disability" or the request is not medically supported, there is no obligation to continue with the process. CM will provide a written summary of steps taken to the requestor. Managers may still consider whether other steps may be taken voluntarily to help the employee perform his/her job functions.
