

SHOFAR

An Interdisciplinary Journal of Jewish Studies

Glenn Dynner, Fairfield University, Editor
Ranen Omer-Sherman, University of Louisville, Editor
Rebekah Klein-Pejšová, Purdue University, Editor
Alon Kantor, Purdue University, Book Review Editor
Joseph Haberer, Founding Editor
Tara Saunders, Managing Editor

EDITORIAL BOARD

Orit Bashkin, University of Chicago
Samantha Baskind, Cleveland State University
Yulia Egorova, Durham University
Norman Finkelstein, Xavier University
Daniel Frank, Purdue University
Amelia Glaser, University of California, San Diego
Karen Grumberg, The University of Texas at Austin
Rachel S. Harris, University of Illinois–Urbana Champaign
Klaus Hödl, University of Graz
Hannah Holtschneider, University of Edinburgh
Adriana X. Jacobs, University of Oxford
Rebecca A. Kobrin, Columbia University
Katrin Kogman-Appel, Westfälische Wilhelms-Universität
Mikel Koven, University of Worcester
Josh Lambert, University of Massachusetts Amherst
Justin Jaron Lewis, University of Manitoba
Shaul Magid, Dartmouth College
Adam Mendelsohn, University of Cape Town
Yael Munk, The Open University of Israel
Shachar Pinsker, University of Michigan
Allison Schachter, Vanderbilt University
Anna Shternshis, University of Toronto
Lisa Silverman, University of Wisconsin–Milwaukee
Karen E. H. Skinazi, University of Bristol
Elliot Wolfson, University of California, Santa Barbara

Shofar publishes original, scholarly work and reviews a wide range of recent books focused on Jewish Studies. Founded in 1981, Shofar is a peer-reviewed journal that is published triannually by Purdue University Press on behalf of the University's Jewish Studies Program.