

Supplementary Figure 1 Relative levels of monoacetylated (upper panel) and trimethylated (lower panel) histone H4 in human colon primary tumors (white bars) and corresponding normal tissue from the same patient (black bars) were quantified by HPCE. Error bars refer to standard deviations obtained by performing three replicates per sample.