

Copyright agreement

I - the corresponding author warrants that:

- the manuscript is an original work, is submitted only to above mentioned journal and has not been published elsewhere
- all individuals with a significant scientific contribution to the manuscript are included as authors and informed of / agreed with the terms and conditions of this agreement
- all non-scientific contributors (such as those providing reagents) are included in the Acknowledgements section of the manuscript
- will take the responsibility for any inadequate practice, such as plagiarism. Our journals, editors, reviewers and publishing house can't be made responsible for any inadequate practice performed by authors
- the manuscript respects the publication ethics guidelines as recommended by the Committee on Publication Ethics (www.publicationethics.org) and contains no material, instruction or statements that can cause harm, or infringe upon the rights or the privacy of others. The work included in the accepted manuscript respects general principles of good scientific practice, such as maintaining professional standards, documenting results, rigorously questioning all findings, and honestly attributing any contributions made by partners, competitors and predecessors.
- all conflict of interests related to the research work, as well as the financial support are recognized and disclosed in the manuscript.

This is an Open Access Article, published under the Creative Commons licenses. The author retains copyright and the public is allowed to reuse the content. The author(s) grant to the publishing house a license to publish the article, to be identified as the original publisher and to use the article's content as the publishing house sees fit. This license includes, but is not limited to, enabling publishing house to publish, republish, transmit, sell, distribute in electronic and print editions of the content and in derivative works throughout the world, in all languages and in all media of expression now known or later developed.

Authors also grant any third party the right to use the article freely as long as its integrity is maintained, its original authors, citation details and publisher are identified and as long as the article is not used for commercial purposes by other parties than the authors and the publishing house.

I, the corresponding author, agree to this COPYRIGHT AGREEMENT as shown above and have obtained permission from all other authors to execute this agreement on their behalf.

TITLE of the manuscript:

NAME of the corresponding author:

DATE:

SIGNATURE: