5	I think events for people to discuss books are a good way for bookstores to get customers. The number of people reading books will increase by sharing the joy of reading. What time does that bookstore close at night? What is the most popular book at the bookstore?
6	Yes, I think so. First, this will help students remember things well. By reviewing what they learned on the same day, students will have a deeper understanding of their lessons. Second, students can solve problems quickly. When they go to school the next day, students can ask their teachers about what they did not understand.
