Any acceptance of Seller's offer is expressly limited to acceptance of these Terms and Conditions and any Purchaser Documents issued from Purchaser to Seller shall constitute Purchaser's assent to these Terms and Conditions. The Contract constitutes the entire understanding between the parties with respect to the subject matter of the Contract and supersedes any prior discussions, negotiations, agreements and understandings. Purchaser represents that it has not relied upon any promises, statements or representations of Seller with respect to the Products, either oral or written, other than those expressly set forth in this Contract.

2. Termination

Neither the Contract nor any related order may be terminated, cancelled or altered by Purchaser except upon terms acceptable to Seller, as evidenced in a signed writing by Seller's authorized representative and Purchaser shall pay to Seller all resulting direct, indirect, consequential, incidental and other damages suffered by Seller resulting therefrom.

Seller shall use commercially reasonable efforts to cause the Products to be shipped and delivered in accordance with the terms of the Contract. Seller guarantees no delivery dates, as all such dates are estimates only. Seller shall not be responsible or liable to Purchaser for any loss or damage of any nature whatsoever resulting from Seller's delayed performance in the shipment and/or delivery of the Products for any reason. Purchaser shall be deemed to have accepted the Products on the earlier of the date (i) when Purchaser signs the Seller's SAT (as hereinafter defined), which shall not be unreasonably withheld or delayed by Purchaser, or the Products pass the SAT in Seller's sole reasonable discretion; (ii) Purchaser incorporates the Products into other goods or places or uses the Products in Commercial Operation (as hereinafter defined); or (iii) sixty (60) days from the date of delivery. "SAT" is Seller's standard site acceptance test procedures adopted from time to time by Seller. "Commercial Operation" is a production run and as a result of which Purchaser delivers goods and/or services to customers and/or for which Purchaser receives compensation pursuant to orders placed by Purchaser's customers, or for Purchaser's own internal use. The Purchaser shall inspect all Products upon delivery and shall notify Seller in writing of any Product defect and/or non-conformance and Purchaser's rejection of the Product no later than fourteen (14) days after delivery or else Purchaser's right to reject such Product shall be irrevocably waived. Provided that Purchaser provides timely written notice of rejection as set forth in this section, as Seller's sole and exclusive liability and Purchaser's sole and exclusive remedy for such defective or non-conforming Products, in Seller's sole discretion, Seller shall repair or replace such Products or credit Purchaser's account for the invoice price of such Products in exchange for Purchaser's return of the Products. Any rejection by the Purchaser must be in writing and state with specificity all defects and/or non-conformances upon which Purchaser will rely to support its rejection. The Seller shall not be in default because of its delays or failure to deliver or perform under the Contract resulting, in whole or in part, from: (i) any foreign or domestic embargoes, seizures, acts of God, insurrections, war, or the adoption or enactment of any law, ordinance, regulation, ruling, or order, governmental acts or restrictions; (ii) the lack of labor or usual means of transportation, shortages or inability to obtain sufficient raw materials, components, equipment, fuel, energy, governmental acts or restrictions, or due to allocations or restrictions upon the use of raw materials, other materials, or labor; (iii) fires, floods, explosions, strikes or other accidents, contingencies, or events, at the Seller's or the supplier's plant or elsewhere (whether or not beyond Seller's control) which directly or indirectly interfere with, or render substantially more burdensome, Seller's production, delivery or performance; and/or (iv) delays by Purchaser in (a) inspecting or acceptance, (b) in furnishing requested specifications, materials, tooling, or information or defects in any of the foregoing, and/or (c) in making payments or otherwise. Upon delivery, all risk of loss or damage and any further cost and responsibility for claims, delivery, and, if applicable, placement and storage shall pass from Seller to Purchaser.

4. Insurance

Purchaser, at its sole expense, will maintain insurance coverage on the Products at all times until Seller has been paid in full relative thereto. Such insurance shall cover all risks of loss or damage from any cause whatsoever and shall be in an amount equal to the purchase price of the Products, or the full undepreciated replacement value (new) of the Products, at Seller's option. All insurance will be of a type, form, in amounts, with a company and under terms and conditions satisfactory to Seller. Purchaser shall designate Seller as a lender loss payee and additional party insured on each insurance policy. Such insurance policy shall provide that no cancellation or nonrenewal thereof will be effective without 30 days prior written notice to Seller of such cancellation or nonrenewal.

5. Payment

Unless otherwise provided in the Contract, all invoices shall be paid within thirty (30) days after delivery. Purchaser shall pay all invoices electronically via ACH, EFT, or wire). In exceptional cases only, Seller may agree to receive payments by credit card or check but Purchaser must first receive advance written approval from Seller and Purchase shall be responsible for any fees for returned checks. If Purchaser fails to pay any invoice when due or if, in the judgment of Seller, the financial condition of Purchaser at any time prior to shipment does not justify the extension of credit, then Seller may require payment in advance or otherwise modify the payment terms upon notice to Purchaser. Interest at the rate of one and one-half percent (1 ½%) per month or at the highest rate allowed by law, whichever is less, shall be charged to all overdue accounts. In the event Purchaser shall be in default of any of the terms hereof, or becomes insolvent or proceedings are instituted to declare Purchaser bankrupt, or a receiver is appointed for Purchaser, Seller may terminate the Contract and upon such termination by Seller, any and all claims or demands against Purchaser held by Seller shall immediately become due and payable. Seller may, from time to time, set-off or recoup any debt Seller owes Purchaser against any debt, credit or other obligation or liability payable by Purchaser to Seller (regardless whether such debt, credit or other obligation or liability arose out of or relates to the Contract).

6. Prices

Unless otherwise provided in the Contract, prices shall be those in effect at the time of delivery and all prices are payable in U.S. dollars. Any tax, duty, custom, inspection or testing fee, or any other fee, interest or charge of any nature together with all penalties and expenses whatsoever imposed by any governmental authority on or measured by the transactions between Seller and Purchaser shall be added to the price of Products, and paid by Purchaser in addition to the prices quoted or invoiced. Prices include Seller's standard packaging. Purchaser is responsible for all shipment, transportation, customs, duties or other related costs.

7. Installation

Purchaser, at its sole cost, shall furnish such materials, labor and equipment as may be necessary for the prompt erection, assembly and installation of the Products. If Seller agrees to or is otherwise construed to have directed, supervised, or controlled in any manner the rigging, erection, assembly or installation of the Products, Purchaser hereby RELEASES, WAIVES, AND DISCHARGES Seller and its affiliated and related companies, and their respective shareholders, directors, officers, employees, agents and representatives (the "Released Parties") from any and all liability relating to any personal injury, property damage, loss, and/or any and all claims or demands relating to, arising out of, and/or or in connection with Seller's rigging, erection, installation, assembly, servicing, or use and operation of the Products, and training of Purchaser's personnel or due to the negligence of Purchaser, or its employees or agents during the erection, assembly or installation of the Products.

- c. delete all copies (including the backup copy) held by the Purchaser on other data carriers, unless the Purchaser is legally obliged to keep them for a longer period.

21.5.2 At Seller's request, the Purchaser must confirm to Seller in writing that the measures specified in Section 21.5.1 have been carried out in full.

21.5.3 If Seller has delivered the software on hardware supplied by Seller, the software may only be transferred to a third party together with the hardware in accordance with Section 21.1. Data carriers with copies of the software supplied by Seller in this context are merely backup or recovery data carriers; they are not independently transferable.

21.6. The Purchaser undertakes to prevent the unauthorized access of its employees and other third parties to the delivered software and the associated documentation by means of appropriate precautions, in particular the storage of the original data carriers and the backup copy in a secure location. Copyright notices, serial numbers and other features serving to identify the software program may not be removed from the data carrier or the documentation or changed in any way.

21.7. Any software contained within or supplied with the Products shall be in an executable form only. The source code shall not be included or provided, and is not sold and will not be delivered and shall remain the property of the Seller. Seller hereby grants Purchaser a non-exclusive, perpetual, worldwide, non-transferable (except as permitted by Seller), non-sublicensable (except as permitted by Seller), royalty-free license to use the software to the extent necessary to make reasonable commercial use of the Products. In no event is the Purchaser entitled to license or otherwise sub-license any software or to deliver, distribute, circulate or communicate it publicly or make it otherwise accessible to any third-party. Purchaser shall not alter, copy, or otherwise reproduce any software delivered for its use.

22. Prohibited Actions

Purchaser shall not:

- a. use the software for purposes other than those for which it was designed;
- b. decompile the software;
- c. bypass or circumvent encryption or security mechanisms of the software; or
- d. analyze the software for the purposes of reverse engineering.

23. Rights of Third Parties, Right of Withdrawal

23.1. To the extent that Seller delivers software that is the subject of third-party rights, as a condition of the Purchaser's use of the software, the Purchaser hereby agrees to the terms communicated by Seller at the time of acceptance of the Contract. If the Purchaser fails or refuses such acceptance, Seller is entitled to cancel the Contract and recover all resulting damages. In the event of termination, expiration or cancellation of the Contract, Purchaser shall immediately thereupon stop using the software and return same to Seller.

23.2. Seller is entitled to inform the Purchaser of the terms and conditions of the rights of third parties before, during or after execution of the Contract, to the extent these Terms and Conditions do not impair the contractually agreed use of the software by the Purchaser and the third party does not require or demand acceptance of the provisions as a condition of use of the software.

24. Audit

24.1. The Purchaser shall, at Seller's request, allow Seller to verify compliance with the Purchaser's obligations set out in these Terms and Conditions, including without limitation these Software Terms. For this purpose, the Purchaser must provide Seller with all information and documents required for the audit for temporary inspection. Furthermore, Purchaser shall grant Seller access to all devices on which software supplied by Seller is installed for the aforementioned purposes. For this purpose, the Purchaser shall grant Seller access to Purchaser's business premises during usual business hours at Seller's request after a notice period of at least 10 calendar days. Seller is entitled to transfer the aforementioned rights through a third party bound by confidentiality obligations consistent with those provided in the Contract, who will not be a competitor of the Purchaser. Seller will ensure that the exercise of its rights will have as little impact as possible on the Purchaser's business operations.

24.2. If the Purchaser does not use the software, but delivers it in its entirety or as part of another service to third parties (end customers), Seller shall also be entitled to the rights specified in Section 24.1 against the end customer and Purchaser shall obtain same from the end customer for the benefit of Seller.
