The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) is a federal law that protects the privacy of student education records. It applies to all schools that receive funds under an applicable program of the U.S. Department of Education and affords students certain rights related to their education records.

In compliance with FERPA, information from a student's education record is considered private and is not released to third parties, with certain exceptions, without the student's explicit documented permission. The University of Colorado only releases education record information to parents or other third parties when a student has authorized permission for the university to release or disclose student information to them. It is important to note that a FERPA consent to release allows for the disclosure of specified education record information from any University of Colorado campus to the authorized individual.

Information that may be released to third parties without student consent is considered Directory Information. A student may restrict the release of directory information by submitting an official request for privacy with the university. See the Office of the Registrar for more information on FERPA and privacy requests.

I understand that, by clicking the "I accept" button below, I am giving written consent for the University of Colorado to allow view access to student information specified by me herein to the individual(s) identified as a guest for the purpose of facilitating the administration of the specified information. I am entitled to edit or revoke this authorized access at any time.
