FIELD SUPPORT ENVIRONMENT

- Overall deployment levels will reach a new peak and budgets will climb to record levels in 2015/16.
- The newest missions are in large, remote and land-locked areas with poor markets and infrastructure.
- Most missions are likely to face continued security risks including increased targeting of UN personnel and asymmetric security threats.
- Missions with previously relatively stable environments have to adapt to fluid regional security dynamics.
- Crises triggered by conflict, humanitarian or health disasters continue to affect operations and may require rapid mission upscaling and downscaling.
- Downward financial pressures will not relent and higher costs from new reimbursement levels must be absorbed.

PRIORITIES FOR 2015/16

1. Enable operations in more remote, dangerous environments: prioritize safety, security and welfare of personnel, and expand shared services for non-location dependent functions.
2. Strengthen collaboration with troops and police: prioritize joint planning and deployment synchronization with OMA, ensure that new units become rapidly operational, enable more proactive, flexible and mobile operations.
3. Improve quality of service delivery: deliver more consistent and higher quality services for clients, measure performance rigorously, top priority is for RSCE, with fullest support of client missions and HQ, to deliver improved performance and customer satisfaction.
4. Ensure corporate reforms work in the field: improve supply chain management, restructure mission support, expand shared services, and roll out Umoja extension 1.
5. Be careful with limited resources: absorb cost increases within existing budgets, find creative solutions for clients, reduce fixed costs, review resources and find productivity gains.

5 The cost per peacekeeper is calculated as actual and audited expenditure for PKMs excl. UNSOA, Support Account and UNLB divided by the average reported troop and police deployments. To account for price changes, figures are adjusted for inflation, using the average annual inflation rate for OECD countries, given that these countries account for more than 90 percent of assessed funding.
